I.--Courses of Instruction.

THOROUGH INSTRUCTION WILL BE AFFORDED IN THE FOLLOWING COURSES OF STUDY :

1. A MODEL SCHOOL OF PREPARATORY COURSE, which will embrace instruction in Orthography, Reading, Geography, Penmanship, Oral and Written Arithmetic, Drawing, Vocal Music, Classical and Physical Geography, Elementary Algebra and the Elements of Latin.

In this department, the rudimentary facts of Physical Science will be taught by Object Lessons or the Development System, which embraces "such a course of training for the young that all the faculties shall receive exercise of such an amount, kind, and quality as shall best conduce to the harmonious and complete development of the whole individual."

2. A NORMAL COURSE, which includes instruction in all the branches required by law to be taught in the Common Schools of the State, with a few other studies suited to develop those powers of mind essential to make efficient teachers. Besides, the Normal Class will have an opportunity of observing the operation of the Model School, and the Senior Division will have the privilege of attending some of the Lectures of the Professors of the College.

3. The COLLEGE COURSES, which embrace all the branches of a liberal education and are adapted to suit special cases.

a. The Classical Course is similar to that pursued in other Colleges, and is that which experience has proved to be best adapted to develop the mental powers and cultivate and refine the taste. A student's grade and advancement will be determined more by the quality than by the quantity of his performances.

b. The Biblical Course presents what we think will supply a long-felt want. It is, what its name implies, a course in which the Word of God will be specifically and thoroughly studied. Believing as we do, that a knowledge of revealed truth is of great importance to man in every relation in life, and that the design of a classical education can be accomplished nearly as well by the study of the Scriptures in the languages in which they were written as by the study of classic Greek or Latin; we have substituted for the classics and some of the higher mathematics, the Original Scriptures and such other studies as will enable students to comprehend fully and clearly the solemn truths contained in the Word of God. For entrance upon this course no special qualifications are required, and graduating in it will confer no special right upon any one, as the road to the Christian Ministry lies through the Class and the Quarterly and Annual Conferences. While "God sends by whom he will send," and the weak things of God are often chosen to confound the wisdom of man, yet a thorough biblical training enabled Paul to defend the truth before kings and princes and to raise the Gospel standard amid such centers of refinement and learning as Athens, Corinth, Ephesus and Rome. Without attempting the specific education of the Theological Seminary, by the Divine blessing, we hope to educate hundreds, whom God will call and send forth to preach "the unsearchable riches of Christ."

c. The Ladies' Course is thorough, and embraces a wide range of study, including music, drawing, painting, &c.

d. The Scientific Course is intended to afford a general culture to such as do not desire to pursue the Classics and prefer to study the French and German Languages and Literature. It includes all the Mathematics, Philosophy, &c., of the Classical Course, with two or three additional studies. For graduation in this course, an equivalent amount of Latin or Greek will be accepted in lieu of German or French.

Commercial Course.

4. For such students as have completed their curriculum of study, or such as wish to obtain a knowledge of the rules and forms of business while pursuing other branches, a thorough Commercial Course is provided at a moderate cost. In this Course, Classes will be formed at the beginning of each term, which will be thoroughly drilled by daily recitations from text books, oral instructions, and practice in writing up books.

II.--Requirements for Admission.

Applicants for admission into the Model School or Normal Department will be examined and will be classified according to their qualifications.

All candidates for admission to any course must be of suitable age, and must present satisfactory evidence of good moral character.

Candidates for advanced standing must pass a satisfactory examination upon the studies pursued by the class which they propose entering, or in their equivalents.

The qualifications necessary for admission to any of the College Classes, is a satisfactory knowledge of the branches taught in the Model School, except that a knowledge of Latin Grammar will not be required for entrance upon the Biblical or Scientific Course.

Entering Lebanon Valley College as a student will be regarded as a pledge to observe all its Laws and Regulations.

Candidates properly prepared in some studies for admission to a higher class, but deficient in others, will be required to make up their requisitions by regular recitations in the lower classes. We deem this requirement essential to the success of students in the higher departments of study.

III.--The Best Mode of Preparation.

The success of a student in the higher classes depends much upon the thoroughness of his preparation. Many young men, of limited means, attempt to prepare themselves for the higher classes by private study. Although praiseworthy, this is a radical mistake, as thorough instruction is more needed in the elementary than in the higher studies, and the facilities provided here will enable students to accomplish more with an ultimate economy of time and money. The drill of the first two or three years of the Course is all-important, and students should, by all means, spend these years in College. Such, however, as find it convenient to prepare themselves for higher Classes, we would advise to follow closely the plan of study laid down in this Catalogue, and not anticipate studies which may be pursued with more advantage at College.

VI.--General Remarks.

1.—LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE.

This Institution is the property of the East Pennsylvania Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, and is under their patronage and supervision. It was opened on the 7th of May, 1866, and chartered with ample powers in April, 1867.

The last Conference authorized the purchase of additional grounds, and the erection of new buildings. The site is secured, and the buildings are now in course of erection, a part of which, it is hoped, will be ready for occupancy at some time during the Fall Term.

2.—LOCATION.

The seat of the College is at Annville, a beautiful rural village of over one thousand inhabitants, situate in the rich and fertile Lebanon Valley, twenty-one miles east of Harrisburg, and thirty-three miles west of Reading, on the Lebanon Valley Railroad, by which connection is made six times daily with New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Baltimore. The village is noted for its healthfulness and the beauty of its scenery, and is free from the temptations to vice so common in large towns and cities.

3.—INSTRUCTION.

We hold that education, to be effective, must be thorough and practical. Hence we shall teach PRINCIPLES rather than rules, and IDEAS rather than words. To do this effectively, it will be necessary to commence with the elements of literature and science. While it might be more pleasant to teach the higher branches only, such a course would not meet a great public want. Most, if not all, the students who usually attend an institution of this kind, are imperfect in the common branches, and as no proper progress can be made in higher studies without a knowledge of those more elemental, we shall give all our students a most thorough drill in COMMON English. We aim to educate the whole man; to develop his physical, moral and intellectual powers. Education should commence with the perceptive faculties. "All human knowledge begins in experience. Except phenomena are given in the sense, and the intellect quickened into activity in perception, it can exert neither the faculty of the understanding nor the reason, but the human mind remains a void, and no cognition is possible. We must begin our intellectual action in sensation." Hence the necessity for accurate training and abundant illustration and exercise, for the neglect of these is the bane of all sound learning. Upon such a beginning as a foundation, we propose erecting an educational structure symmetrical in its proportions, and towering to the regions of pure thought and holy aspiration.

4.—THE ESSENTIALS OF EDUCATION.

Among the faculties distinguishing man from the animal creation, are speech, reason, taste, imagination and conscience, and just in proportion as these are developed and cultivated, does he rise in the scale of being. A high culture can be secured only by a proper training in the branches which constitute a liberal education.

5.—THE NECESSITY FOR GENERAL EDUCATION.

Some think that the few only need to be well educated. This is an error. Men of education are wanted in the counting-room, in the workshop and at the plow, as well as in the pulpit, on the rostrum and at the bar. In a country like ours, where the very existence of the government depends upon the general intelligence and virtuous principles of the masses, and where every man is eligible to the highest position, how necessary that all should be educated, especially since the chances of success are in favor of him who has the best qualifications!

The men most successful as preachers, lawyers, or legislators, are not the profound thinkers, but those who are able to speak well. Hence the necessity for

6.—A GOOD ELOCUTION.

As language is one of man's highest endowments, and is both spoken and written, to give true utterance to each word, and master all the complex forms of speech, is a matter of fundamental importance. To attain this great end, our course in Orthography, Reading, Elocution, Grammar, Composition, Rhetoric, Literature and Criticism is very complete. We commence with the lowest class in reading to teach a correct expression, and by a thorough drill in the elementary sounds, in vocal culture and systematic elocution, with private and public declamation, we hope to make fine readers and eloquent speakers.

7.—ABILITY TO COMPOSE WELL

Is a great desideratum. Correct orthography and elegant diction can only be acquired by close study and long practice. Daily exercise in WRITING words correctly, and in combining them into sentences after elegant models, with an analysis of all the forms of language, will lay the foundation for a chaste and beautiful style, while the study of the modern and the classical languages and literature will enrich the student's vocabulary, and enable him to appreciate the beauties of Composition.

8.—ACCURACY OF THOUGHT AND CORRECTNESS OF REASONING.

Accuracy of thought and correctness of reasoning is of as much importance as fine elocution and elegant diction. The main object of education is to develop and discipline the mental powers. To think with facility and reason logically, is the end to be secured by a proper drill in mathematics, philosophy and dialectics. Error would soon infold society, and sap the foundations of truth, were there not men competent to sift each specious theory, and expose its fallacies. Close thinkers alone can do this. They are the conservators of truth, and the allies of progress. How necessary, then, is a thorough drill in this particular.

VII.--Eclectic Studies.

The Laws of the College provide that students of any Course may elect to pursue an equivalent study in any other course, with the consent of the Faculty.

Discipline.

THE government of the College is strict, but parental. It is based on the ideas of right and wrong, and will be administered impartially.

The object of the Institution is to afford a home, where parents or guardians may place their children and wards with safety and profit, and where young men and young ladies may be fitted for usefulness in life, under influences calculated to refine their tastes, ennoble their aspirations, and develop a high Christian character. By a kind but firm administration of wholesome regulations, by the requirement of strict attention to the exercises of the school, and by constant and careful training, the moral and intellectual powers are developed, and students fitted for high and responsible positions.

In the Collegiate department students are required to attend twenty recitations and lectures per week, and for every unexcused absence or failure, they receive a demerit mark.

All roughness, obscenity or vulgarity in language or action is strictly forbidden, and every species of conduct, immoral or vicious in its tendency, is contrary to the letter and spirit of the laws of the Institution. Gambling, quarreling, the drinking of intoxicating liquors, profanity, dishonesty, the using of tobacco about the grounds and buildings, idleness, carelessness and incorrigibility, will meet with condign punishment.

No vicious, idle, or disobedient student will be retained in the Institution, nor will such be knowingly received.

STUDENTS ARE REQUIRED—

- (a.) To attend prayers every morning and every evening except on Saturday and Sabbath.
- (b.) To attend public worship twice on the Sabbath day, at such place as their parents or guardians may designate.
- (c.) To attend promptly all appointed exercises, and diligently to prepare the same.
- (d.) To observe the regulations with regard to study, recitations, &c.
- (e.) And, generally, to conduct themselves in an orderly and becoming manner.

Every unexcused absence, failure or misdemeanor is reported to the faculty, and a record made of the same.

Five demerit marks will subject a student to private reproof; ten, to public reproof with notice to parent or guardian, and fifteen, to dismission.

The Faculty may, on evidence of reformation, restore a dismissed student.

For graver offences, the punishments are reproof, loss of privilege, confinement, dismission and expulsion.

Commercial Department.

For the benefit of those young men who wish to qualify themselves for business, and who wish to pursue an exclusively Commercial Course, we will afford special facilities.

The Method of Instruction combines theory and practice, and is adapted to make practical business Men.
